

Festif & Safe

Tout le monde y veille

The safety of all festival-goers is important to us. That's why we collaborate with local organizations to provide you with a festive space where all participants can feel comfortable and safe.

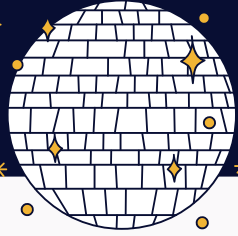

Here, we have zero tolerance for aggressions.

No violence will be tolerated on the site, whether physical, verbal or sexual.

In addition, no discriminatory remarks or behavior towards race, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity, social class, physical or mental ability, age or any other form of discrimination will be tolerated.

Sexually assaulting a person who has been drugged without their knowledge has serious consequences for everyone.

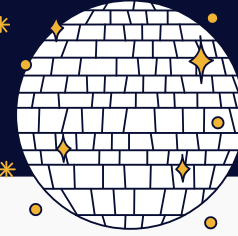

Here, we take care of each other.

If you witness a problematic situation (harassment, unwanted contact, involuntary intoxication, etc.), here are some tips:

Act quickly ;
Respect your limits ;
Be in solidarity with the victim ;
Report the situation to volunteers or security.

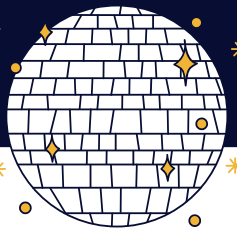

In case of an emergency, dial 911.

Here, we are ready to welcome you.

If you feel uncomfortable or in danger, you will find support from intervention workers, employees or volunteers.

A safe space or a first aid tent are at your disposal if you need help, or to isolate yourself.

Here, we promote the culture of consent.

An intoxicated person is unable to give informed consent. In this case, if it's not clearly YES, then it's clearly NO.

Non-consensual behavior won't be tolerated and anyone who fails to meet this standard could be expelled immediately.

Here, we party safely

Information and harm reduction materials are available at the safe space or from identified individuals. Feel free to approach them!

We wish you an excellent festival.
Be respectful, have fun, and take care of each other!

If you witness a problematic situation (harassment, unwanted contact, involuntary intoxication, etc.), here are some tips:

Act quickly: you can offer a distraction, ask for help from another person, or intervene directly if you feel able to.

Respect your limits and do not put yourself in danger.

Be in solidarity with the victim: listen to them, and allow them to go to a space where they feel safe.

And above all, believe what they tell you.

Report the situation to volunteers, intervention workers or security. In case of an emergency, dial 911.

The project

The project is brought by the TCFGÎM

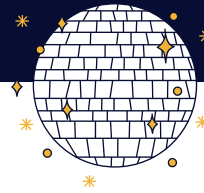

Our feminist vision :

The Table de concertation féministe de la Gaspésie et des Îles-de-la-Madeleine aims to transform social power relations (dominant-dominated), with a view to developing egalitarian relationships between all people.

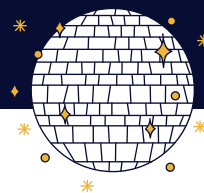

It brings together several areas of expertise

The project is being designed and carried out in collaboration with CALACS la Bôme Gaspésie, Mi-Chemin and the Regional Public Health Department of Gaspésie-Îles-de-la-Madeleine.

It aims to prevent sexual assaults

Prevent sexual assaults, such as those committed under the influence of alcohol and drugs, and involuntary poisoning in festivals and festive spaces in Gaspésie and the Magdalen Islands.

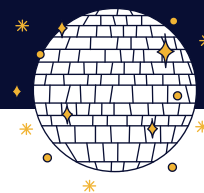

It promotes the non-victimization of people

The measures are both collective and individual but with a non-blaming aim towards the victims.

It promotes the culture of consent

We define and promote the culture of consent rather than the culture of rape.

It aims to support festive spaces

It combines awareness, training and on-site presence.

Types of support: reflections, training, communications, displays, presence at festivals.

Our approach

Prevent sexual assaults, particularly those carried out through alcohol and drugs, and involuntary poisoning in festivals and festive spaces in the Gaspésie.

Promote the culture of consent rather than the culture of rape.

Propose measures that are both collective and individual but with a non-victimizing aim.

Materiel available

If you are approached by a victim or witness of a sexual assault:

- Give the victim your full attention and make them your priority.
 - Accept the victim's words with kindness and empathy
 - Do not doubt the victim's words
- If the situation seems critical, call 911
- Partner with another person for the intervention.
- Determine if she is alone or accompanied
 - Do not leave her alone (ask for help from another volunteer or worker)
 - Listen to her needs
 - Offer to accompany her to the safe space or to an isolated place
- Contact a responder
- Contact a friend or family from the victim if she wants to
- Make sure the victim is in the care of a responder before leaving.
- Share the information you have about the situation to the site manager

If you witness harassment or an assault:

- Distract: If you see someone in distress, step in before the situation escalates by distracting the harasser's attention. You can ask them for the time, directions, or even pretend to know them.
- Delegate: If you don't feel comfortable intervening alone, ask someone else for help.
- Document: If you have your phone with you, consider recording or photographing the scene. Be sure to discreetly note the date, time, and location so this information is included in the footage. This is not for sharing on social media but to provide evidence the victim can use if they choose to file a complaint.
- Direct: Depending on the situation and without putting yourself in danger, you can directly address the victim or the harasser, asking the harasser to stop and leave.
- Dialogue: Once the harasser has left, approach the victim to reassure them, let them know they are not alone, and ask if they need anything. Be careful not to overwhelm them and explain that the harasser's behavior is not normal and absolutely not their fault.
